SUMMARY

A solutions-oriented Web Developer and US Army Veteran who holds over 8 years of experience in the supply chain management space. Whether it be solving multi-faceted logistical issues for infantry at war or de-bugging complex errors in code, I take a methodological, detail-oriented approach in developing real-time and effective solutions in high pressure situations. As both an independent self-starter and collaborative team player, I seek the opportunity to work at an organization that places learning, development and teamwork at the center of what they do.
